DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 8 is objected to because of the following informalities: The recitation "of said plurality or regions" should read -- of said plurality of regions --. For examination purposes, the recitation shall be considered as -- of said plurality of regions --.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

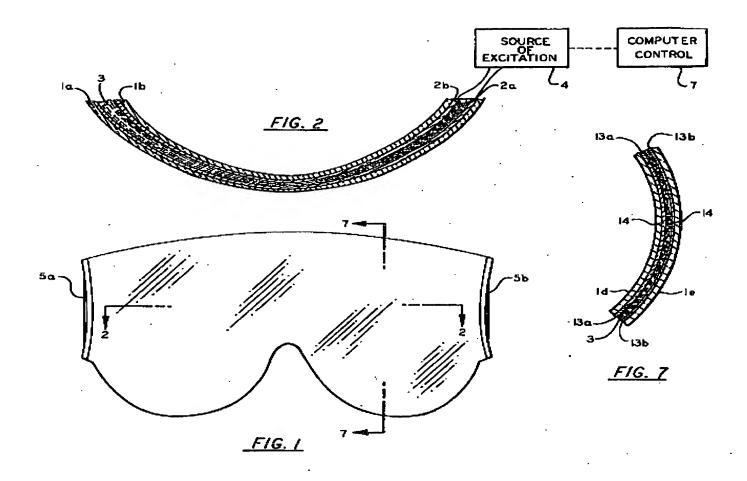

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 2. Claims 1-3, 8, 9, 13, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hoyt et al (Hoyt) USPAT 3,942,270.

As to claim 1, Hoyt discloses in Figures 1-7 an eye shade apparatus having a variable transmission comprising: an electo-optic lens, Figure 1; a variable power source, 4 in Figures 2, 4, and 5, for controlling the transmission of said electro-optic lens to have a nonuniform, 2c through 2i in Figure 5, light transmission (col. 4, lines 31-58).

Art Unit: 2871

As to claim 2, Hoyt discloses in Figures 1-7 an eye shade apparatus according to claim 1 wherein said electo-optic lens comprises a liquid crystal material, 3 in Figure 2, (col. 3, lines 64-66).

As to claim 3, Hoyt discloses in Figures 1-7 an eye shade apparatus according to claim 1 wherein said electo-optic lens comprises p-methox-ybenylidine-p-n-butylaniline (Applicant's electo-optically active crystals) (col. 3, lines 64-66).

Art Unit: 2871

As to claim 8, Hoyt discloses in Figures 1-7 an eye shade apparatus according to claim 1 wherein said electro-optic lens comprises a plurality of regions, 2c through 2i, said variable power source comprises a plurality of power outputs (lines from selection matrix, 11) each of said plurality of power outputs corresponds to at least one of said plurality or regions (per Figure 5).

As to claim 9, Hoyt discloses in Figures 1-7 an eye shade apparatus according to claim 8 wherein the power applied to each of said plurality of regions can be the same (Abstract, simulate total black-out) or different (Abstract, simulate loss of peripheral vision).

As to claim 13, Hoyt discloses in Figures 1-7 an eye shade apparatus according to claim 8, further comprising a computer or a mechanically programmed selection matrix provided as a means of controlling the magnitude and application sites of excitation (Applicant's electronic storage medium storing a plurality of power patterns for applying to said plurality of power outputs and a switch for selecting said plurality of power patterns) for controlling the variable optical media (VOM).

As to claim 14, Hoyt discloses in Figures 1-7 an eye shade apparatus according to claim 1, wherein said electro-optic lens has variable color (col. 2, lines 58-65).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

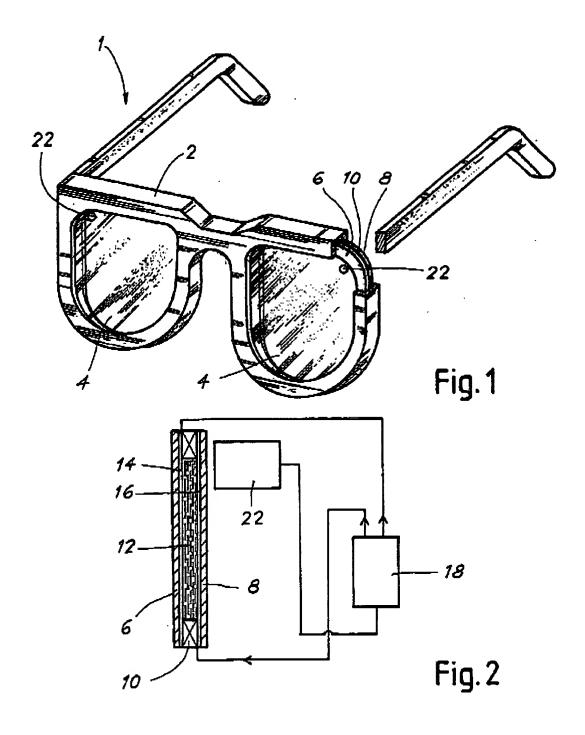

- (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 3. Claims 4-7, 10-12, 16, 17, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hoyt, as applied to claims 1 and 8, in view of Grupp USPAT 5,608,567.

As to claims 4 and 10, Hoyt discloses the eye shade apparatus according to claim 1 and according to claim 8.

Hoyt does not explicitly disclose a variable power source comprising a manual control to vary said power source.

Grupp teaches in Figures 1 and 2 a liquid crystal (col. 3, lines 23-26) eye shade apparatus with a voltage generating means, 18, with manual control (Abstract) to vary the transmission of the cell, 4, to protect the eyes.

Art Unit: 2871

Art Unit: 2871

Grupp is evidence that ordinary workers in the art of liquid crystals would find the reason, suggestion, or motivation to add manual control to vary light transmission protect the eyes.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art of liquid crystals at the time the invention was made to modify the eye shade of Hoyt with the manual control of Grupp.

As to claims 5, 11, 16, 17, and 20, Hoyt discloses the eye shade device according to claim 1.

Hoyt does not explicitly disclose a variable power source comprising a photosensitive control to vary said power source in response to the intensity of light incident on said eye shade device.

Grupp teaches in Figures 1 and 2 a liquid crystal (col. 3, lines 23-26) eye shade apparatus with a voltage generating means, 18, with one or several photosensitive sensors, 22, (col. 3, lines 39-53) to automatically control the transmission of the cell, 4, to protect the eyes (Abstract).

Grupp is evidence that ordinary workers in the art of liquid crystals would find the reason, suggestion, or motivation to add photosensitive control to automatically vary light transmission to protect the eyes.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art of liquid crystals at the time the invention was made to modify the eye shade of Hoyt with the photosensitive control of Grupp.

As to claims 6 and 12, Hoyt discloses the eye shade apparatus according to claim 1.

Hoyt does not explicitly disclose a manual mode of operation wherein said variable voltage source comprises a manual control to vary said power source and an automatic mode of operation wherein said power source comprises a photosensitive control to vary said power source in response to the intensity of light incident on said eye shade device and a switch permitting selection of said manual mode of operation or said automatic mode of operation.

Grupp teaches as prior art the use of a cut-out switch (col. 1, lines 55-61) to manually versus automatically control the shade. Furthermore, Grupp teaches the use of automatic and manual control (Abstract) which would most commonly entail the use of a switch to select manual versus automatic mode (as well as power off). Also, the use of a switch to select operating modes and to turn the device off is considered an obvious expedient to control the device.

Grupp is evidence that ordinary workers in the art of liquid crystals would find the reason, suggestion, or motivation to add a switch to select manual versus automatic mode. Motivational advantages include easy mode selection, battery conservation (power off), and manual override.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art of liquid crystals at the time the invention was made to modify the eye shade of Hoyt with the switch of Grupp.

Art Unit: 2871

As to claim 7, Hoyt discloses the eye shade apparatus according to claim 1.

Hoyt does not explicitly disclose an electro-optic lens comprising one region, the transmission of which is controlled by said variable power source.

Grupp teaches in Figures 1 and 2 a liquid crystal (col. 3, lines 23-26) eye shade apparatus with a voltage generating means, 18, with a photosensitive control, 22, (col. 3, lines 39-53) to automatically vary the transmission of the cell, 4, comprising one region (col. 3, lines 11-38) to protect the eyes (Abstract).

Grupp is evidence that ordinary workers in the art of liquid crystals would find the reason, suggestion, or motivation to add an electro-optic lens comprising one region to protect the eyes.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art of liquid crystals at the time the invention was made to modify the eye shade of Hoyt with the one region lenses of Grupp.

4. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hoyt in view of Grupp as applied to claims 1 and 17 and further in view of Witt USPAT 4,106,217.

As to claim 15, Hoyt discloses an eye shade apparatus according to claim 1.

Art Unit: 2871

Hoyt does not explicitly disclose an eye shade apparatus comprising a first and a second lens adapted for shading a first and second eye of (Applicant's or) a user and a first and second side lens.

Witt teaches in Figures 2 and 3, an eye shade apparatus comprising a first and a second lens, 17, adapted for shading a first and second eye of a user and a first and second side lens, 23, to simulate flight through particular weather and cloud conditions (Abstract).

Art Unit: 2871

Witt is evidence that ordinary workers in the art of liquid crystals would find the reason, suggestion, or motivation to add an eye shade apparatus comprising a first and a second lens adapted for shading a first and second eye of a user and a first and second side lens to simulate flight through particular weather and cloud conditions.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art of liquid crystals at the time the invention was made to modify the eye shade of Hoyt with the first and a second lens adapted for shading a first and second eye of a user and a first and second side lens of Grupp.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 18 and 19 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

As to claim 18, a search of relevant prior art did not disclose, alone or in combination, the eye shade apparatus according to 1 wherein said apparatus comprises four electro-optic lenses which comprises two side lenses and two forward lenses, and four photosensitive regions, one for each of said four electro-optic lenses.

As to claim 19, a search of relevant prior art did not disclose, alone or in combination, the eye shade apparatus according to claim 17 further including a processor to determine said nonuniform light transmission from responses of said photosensitive regions.
